

Enhancing the News

February 2007

Seaweed 07'

March 4-10 is Seaweed, the national educational campaign that seeks to focus students' attention on the marine environment. Held annually, it proposes to lead students on a discovery of: the ocean, estuaries, wetlands and other waterways, and the fascinating creatures that inhabit these environments.

Ultimately, Seaweed aims to encourage an appreciation of the sea and raise awareness about the actions required for its ongoing management and conservation. This year's theme is 'Marine Bycatch Matters'.

EnhanceTV has a wide range of relevant programs and study guides to assist teaching. Shallow Seas, part of the Planet Earth series, is available in case you missed it as is the study guide. We also have the study guide for Ocean Deep, the final episode of the second series of Planet Earth, that is due to be screened March 11. There's For the Juniors: The Sea – Let's Go to The Beach, and Mangroves. For secondary and tertiary students, there is the Small Island, Big Fight study guide. And if you type "reef" into the search field, you'll find 17 programs and study guides, including some on the Great Barrier Reef.

